DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-41 are allowed. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: As noted in the file history (such as at the latest response), the claimed inventions are meant to be within the situation of the signal transfer and extraction of decryption key. The decryption key is extracted from decrypted data rather than arrive in a different way. See e.g., page 11 of the Remarks section of the latest Response from Applicant (dated April, 2006). This is to be distinguished from the simple case of a key-encrypting key. As pointed out at page 12 of the Remarks, such a simple case would not require the claimed invention's type of extraction of the key from decrypted data because some of the secret information, not given beforehand to the decrypting system in the claimed invention, would already be known to the decrypting system of such a simple case. See Remarks (including page 12, the second full paragraph) for more detailed explanation. The prior art did not teach or suggest the particular features of the claims.
